FRISCO PLAN IS A 'STAR CHAMBER' DEAL, SALE SAYS

Minority Stockholders Not Let
in on Reorganization Scheme, Attorney Declares.

WANTS DELAY IN HEARING

State Commission Continues Session, but Gives Times for Cross-Examination.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 15.—Opposition to immediate consideration of the Frisco reorganization plan by the Public Service Commission was made by Wesley N. Sale of St. Louis, an attorney representing minority stockholders, when the case was called this morning. Sale said that his clients had not been let in on the "star chamber" hearings held by the commission which prepared the plan.

Sale said he had not been able to get a copy of the plan, and asked that the hearing be postponed 10 days to enable him to obtain information to conduct a cross-examination of witnesses. Chairman Atkinson ruled that the hearing should proceed, but that opportunity would be given for cross-examination at a subsequent hearing.

Claims Provided For.
R. T. Swayne, counsel for the Reorganization Committee, told the commission that provisions are made in the plan of reorganization, if approved by the commission, to settle all claims, both secured and unsecured. He said the plan contemplates the setting aside of $7,000,000 in preferred stock, $5,000,000
of common and such other amounts of cash or securities as required to pay up claims when established.

He said he did not know the amount of unsecured claims, but believed ample provisions had been made to meet them.
Swayne likewise stated in answer to a question from Chairman Atkinson that all overcharge claims which might be established against the enforcement of the rate laws would be taken care of.
Atkinson asked him if personal injury claims for which judgment has been awarded, or are now in process of litigation, would, when established, be taken care of. Swayne said that they would.

Commissioner Atkinson, after a wrangle among the attorneys, held that the hearing would proceed, but that upon a motion fixed by the commission cross-examination could be had of the matterial witnesses in the case.

H. S. Priest of St. Louis heatedly declared that the Frisco had operated without notice to many of the stockholders. He said that Festus J. Wade, representing the Mercantile Trust Co., which held $5,000 of the stock, Col. For-dys, representing $50,000, Priest represented $10,000 for himself and from $500 to $10,000 for David R. Francis, and Mr. Lazarus, representing 10,000 shares, and Mr. Yorkum, were among those participating in the committee's meeting in St. Louis.

"These gentlemen have had full opportunity to become conversant with what was going on and if they did not they have not exercised proper diligence," Priest said.

Sale declared that only stockholders willing to put their heads into the halter and go into the plan were represented in the reorganization meeting.

Among the stockholders represented by Sale were A. J. Blumenshine of Springfield, with $50,000 of common stock. The latter had no objection to proceeding under the arrangement announced by Atkinson.

John D. Johnson of St. Louis appeared on behalf of the Cape Girardeau & Northern bondholders, whose claims he said the Frisco had attempted to repudiate.
He said these claims had been declared valid by Judge Sanborn, but that details of the matter was still in litigation.

Chairman Atkinson asked him if he would be satisfied with the arrangement of the plan of reorganization provided it took care of all established claims, and he said he would.

It developed by the plans that the Frisco has relinquished to the bondholders of the New Orleans, Texas & Mexico and the Chicago & Eastern Illinois
those systems, and they are not included in the plan of reorganization. The mortgages upon those lines were approximately $25,000,000 each. Swayne said under a foreclosure these lines had been turned over to the bondholders,
and that now are in process of reorganization as separate systems.

$225 IN WATER RATES SAFE THAT NO ONE WANTS

Mysterious Envelope of Money Found for Which There Is No Claimant.

The tidy sum of $225 is going begging at the city hall. No one will claim it and all who have been questioned about it have hastened to say it isn't theirs
and they don't want it.

The money, in an envelope, was found in the safe of the Collector of Water Rates, last week by George Kropp, assistant cashier. He has turned it over to Circuit Attorney Harvey, who is conducting a grand jury investigation of irregularities in the water rate department.

Experts who have gone over the department's books have been unable to find whence the money came or to whom it belongs.

Ferdinand C. J. Sattell, until recently cashier in the office, said today that he didn't know where the $225 came from.
Former Water Rates Collector John B.
Owen also disclaimed all knowledge of the money. The amount does not fit in with any transaction in connection with the check kiting and I O U traffic now being investigated by the grand jury.
It is known that a laundry company which since has gone out of business paid $25 water bills shortly before the exposure of irregularities. Further investigation of the books is being made to learn whether this is the money found in the safe.

JOHN T. MILLIKEN JR. BECOMES SENIOR SPEED LAW VIOLATOR

He Is Graduated by Age From Junior Class—Fined $5 for Most Recent Offense.

John T. Milliken Jr., 17 years old, of 1180 Belt avenue, son of a wealthy manufacturer, mine owner and grain
dealer, was fined $5 by Police Judge Sanders this morning for speeding his automobile on Hamilton avenue, between Delmar boulevard and Cabanne avenue, Friday night. The fine marked young Milliken's graduation, through age, from the junior class of speed-law violators into the senior class. He will be eligible to $15 and $500 fines, in the case of future offenses.

Young Milliken became known two years ago as the terror of the farmers in the neighborhood of Eureka, St. Louis County, where his father has a farm. He was indicted by the county grand jury in September, 1913, on two charges of reckless driving, convicted, fined and paroled. A year later, he was arrested in Forest Park, and was lectured and paroled in the juvenile court.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—New York hotel rooms are filled. Many of them have turned away guests. This is attributed in part to the arrival of purchasing agents from England, France, Russia and Italy.

Merchants from South America, Central America, the West Indies and Canada, who formerly went to London, Paris or Berlin, are here. Buyers and visitors from the West are arriving at

by a submarine in the Mediterranean on Nov. 7, says that while the crew was getting into the small boats, the submarine approached to within 100 feet of the France and when all the sailors were safely off the ship grouped the boats together with the steamer as a background, after which moving pictures were taken of the scene.

RENO, Nev., Nov. 15.—A decree of divorce on the ground of cruelty has been granted by the District Court here to Mrs. Lucy Wilson, formerly of St. James, Mo., from Huntington Wilson, who was Assistant Secretary of State under Philander C. Knox
during the Taft administration. Wilson brought the suit, alleging desertion, but the court denied him relief and granted the decree to the wife,
who set up a cross complaint, alleging mental cruelty extending over a period of several years. She was al-

Mrs. Huntington Wilson was the

James, Mo., which is on the Frisco, 100 miles west of St. Louis, her mar-

when he was in the diplomatic service

Mrs. Wilson was much admired in Washington society. She said, in an interview a few years ago, that she liked to tell people she was from St.
James, Mo., because so few knew where St. James was, and she was thus able to give valuable information.

Wilson, who was born in Chicago in 1875, had attained high diplomatic honors before he was 30 years old, in Washington, in the Orient, in South America and on the continent. Mrs. Wilson achieved success as a diplomatic hostess. She is beautiful and cultured and has a charming personality.

Wilson is connected with two of the oldest and most aristocratic families in Ireland. His great-grandfather was the Marquis of Eglinton, and the Hasting-tons. He is the son of Benjamin Wilson and Frances Huntington Wilson.
In 1897 he took his A. B. at Yale and that same year was appointed second secretary of the United States legation at Tokio, from which position he rose to that of first secretary.

CHURCHILL SAYS DARDANELES PLAN WAS WORTH WHILE

Tells House of Commons if Any Operations Warranted Carrying Through They Did.

FISHER DIDN'T VETO THEM

Antwerp Relief Originated With Kitchener and France, He Declares.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Winston Spencer
Churchill declared in the House of Commons today that if any operations in the history of the world were worth carrying through with sustained fury and utter disregard of life, the operations at the Dardanelles were worth it. Churchill was explaining his resignation from the position of chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, the comparatively unimportant cabinet post to which he was assigned in the formation of the coalition cabinet last spring. Before the reorganization he was First Lord of the Admiralty.

"We are passing through a bad time,
which probably will be worse before it is better, but it will be better," Churchill said. "If we endure, the campaign of 1915 should be decided against Ger-< made progress, to the north of Rarobro. In the direction of Kosturino Bulgarian troops delivered a violent attack along the entire front of the left bank of the River Carpa. They were driven back with heavy losses.

KITCHENER'S TRIP EXPECTED TO FIX GREEK ATTITUDE

Press Approves Means Taken to End Uncertainty of Constantine's Role.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—London newspapers almost unanimously agree that in the reported mission of Field Marshal Earl Kitchener to King Constantine of Greece, Great Britain has taken the best possible means of bringing Greece to a definite decision as to the role she is to play in the Balkan conflict and ending the uncertainty which has followed what are alluded to as Greece's political and constitutional vagaries. The Pall Mall Gazette, voicing what appears to be the general view, says:

"It seems probable that Earl Kitchener has gone out armed with full powers to bring this tortuous ruler (referring to King Constantine) face to face with distinct alternatives. He has long enough been permitted to enjoy the immunities of a neutral while employing every sleight-of-hand to make worse the position of the Entente Powers. The assurances of friendship tendered by his latest cabinet are not worth the paper or the breath they carry. The view of the Greek treachery that has been perpetrated toward Serbia.

"Earl Kitchener has encountered this truly byzantine type of character in other regions and should understand how to bring it to a reckoning. Earl Kitchener's mission has completely steadied feeling in the allied nations over the Balkan difficulties."

Heavy Infantry Fighting Continues in the "Labyrinth"

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Infantry fighting has been going on without interruption in the "labyrinth," according to announcement this afternoon by the War Office. The communication says:

"In the Artois district at the 'labyrinth' the fighting between infantry forces, together with the throwing of hand grenades continued without interruption last night. It has been confirmed that the losses of the enemy during the action of Nov. 14 were very heavy."

YOUTH LOSES FOOT IN MEETING COLLEGE FRATERNITY CONDITION

Fighting J. Graham of Albany, Mo., Falls Under Wheels of Tram When "Beating" His Way.

MOBILE, Mo., Nov. 15.—Fighting J. Graham, 19 years old, son of a grain dealer in Albany, Mo., has lost one of his feet in an effort to comply with requirements for membership in a fraternity at the University of Missouri. Graham was "beating" his way on the "blind" baggage car of a Wabash train from Omaha to St. Louis, one of the feats exacted of him by the fraternity. In attempting to alight this morning Graham fell beneath the wheels.

Graham was accompanied by R. L. Eker Jr. of Galatin, Mo., 20. The boys are students at the State University. Graham was taken to Woodland Hospital, where it was necessary to amputate his foot.

The Very Rev. S. S. Marquis Gets Year Leave of Absence to Enter Labor's Ranks.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 15.—The Very Rev. Samuel S. Marquis, dean of St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral, will take a year from his church duties for study as an employee in Henry Ford's automobile factory.

Things have reached such a point of prosperity in St. Paul's Parish that the vestry felt they could afford to give me a year's leave of absence," said Dr. Marquis. "I have accepted because I believe a year spent in the study of humanity at the sociological department of the Ford factory will enable me to return to preach and live a more vital and practical Christianity."

"I believe that it would be a good thing if the church would order that about every seventh year a clergyman should go for a time into the ranks of labor and learn at first hand more about the life, the thought, the material environment and the problems of the men he is seeking to teach and help."

AUSTRIANS DENY FIRING UPON ANCONA LIFEBOATS

Official Statement Asserts Italian Ship Attempted to Escape After a Warning—Another Italian Passenger Steamer Sunk.

BERLIN, Nov. 15, by wireless to Sayville.—That the Italian steamship Ancona sought to escape at full speed, after a warning shot had been fired across her bow and that she dove to only after being shelled for some time, is the charge the Austrian-Hungarian admiralty makes officially, according to the Overseas News Agency.

The official statement says that the submarine commander allowed three-quarters of an hour for the passengers and crew to take to the boats before the vessel was torpedoed, and it is denied that shots were fired at the lifeboats as some of the survivors have charged.

The statement says: "The submarine fired one shot in front of the Ancona's prow, whereupon the steamer fled at full speed, in accordance with the order issued by the Italian authorities which instructs ship commanders to flee or to sink the submarine. The submarine pursued the steamer and continued firing, but the vessel stopped only after being hit several times."

"The submarine allowed 45 minutes for the passengers and crew to abandon the steamer, during which confusion reigned, but only a small number of boats were lowered and these were occupied principally by the crew."

"A great number of boats, probably sufficient to save all the passengers, remained unoccupied. After a period of 50 minutes, and as another steamer was approaching, the submarine submerged and torpedoed the Ancona, which sank after an additional 45 minutes."

"If any of the passengers lost their lives this was the fault of the crew, because the steamer tried to escape after it had received orders to stop and then the crew saved only themselves and not the passengers."

"Reports published in the foreign press that the submarine fired on the Ancona's lifeboats are mendacious inventions. When the steamer stopped the submarine ceased firing."

ANOTHER ITALIAN STEAMSHIP SUNK

Bosnia Torpedoed by Austrian Submarine; One Out of Four Lifeboats Missing.

ROME, Nov. 15.—A submarine flying the Austrian flag has sunk the Italian steamship Bosnia, 551 tons. Four lifeboats were boarded by the passengers and crew, but only three of the craft have reached land, so far as is known. The fourth is unreported.

The sinking of the Bosnia following the destruction of the Ancona, has resulted in a determined agitation for the adoption in the Mediterranean of measures similar to those which have checked submarine activities in the North Sea.

Careful search is being made for the missing boats of the Friensae and Bosnia, but there is no longer hope of finding additional survivors of the Ancona. Latest official reports give the number saved as 229, out of a total of 507 aboard.

BURIAL OF BOOKER WASHINGTON TO BE ON WEDNESDAY

Special Train Will Carry Alabama Officials and Others to Tuskegee Institute.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Nov. 15.—Funeral services for Booker T. Washington, the noted negro educator and founder of Tuskegee Institute, who died here yesterday, will be held at the institute Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, followed by burial in the institute grounds. The body will lie in state all day tomorrow.

Thousands of Alabamians, in addition to prominent educators and others from various parts of the country, are expected to attend the funeral. A special train will be run from Montgomery to bring State officials and others.

Messages of condolence reached the Washington home here today from leaders of thought and endeavor in all walks of life.

While it is officially announced that the question of a successor will not be considered until after the funeral, the names of Emmett J. Scott, confidential secretary of Dr. Washington; Warren Logan, treasurer, and Dr. Ainsworth, business manager of the institute, are being mentioned in that connection. Scott, who for 18 years has been closely identified with Dr. Washington in his work, is said to be the most likely successor.

His Hardening of Arteries.

Hardening of the arteries following a nervous breakdown caused Washington's death four hours after he arrived from New York.

Although he had been in failing health for several months, the negro leader's condition became serious only last week while he was in the East. He then realized the end was near, but was determined to make the last long trip south. He had said often: "I was born in the South and expect to die in the South."

Accompanied by his wife, his secretary and a physician, Dr. Washington left New York for Tuskegee at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. He reached home Saturday midnight and died at 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

A widow, three children and four grandchildren survive.

Washington was born in slavery near Hale's Ford, Va., in 1857 or 1858. After the emancipation of his race, he moved with his family to West Virginia.

In his autobiographical book, "Up From Slavery," Washington told how he first learned, as a young child, that he was a slave, and that there was a difference between his condition and that of a free white child. He said he awoke one night and "card his mother" very about that her children might some day have freedom—a blessing.

The first test is for the taste. When you smoke a cigarette, you should be able to tell if it is good or bad. If it is good, you should try it. If it is bad, you should not try it.

If the cigarette contains a lot of nicotine, it will be bad for you. If it contains a lot of tar, it will be bad for you. If it contains a lot of ash, it will be bad for you.

GERMAN SURPRISES IN EAST AT AN END, SAYS GEN. RUZSKY

"By Not Advancing Enemy Is Retreating," Czar's Commander Tells Interviewers.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 15.—Gen. Ruzsky, who is conducting an aggressive campaign against the Austro-Germans in Russia, in an interview published in the Bourse Gazette, spoke confidently of conditions at the front. He said:

"Without indulging in prophecy, which would be imprudent, I may say that we are now guaranteed against unpleasant surprises on the part of the enemy. The time for surprises is past; but it would be irresponsible frivolity to describe the enemy as exhausted or in the death throes. On the contrary, he is strong, but not so strong that we need fear surprises either here or on the Western front."

"By not advancing the enemy is really retreating. The Germans now surround readily, in whole companies and battalions, and this, in my opinion, is an ominous sign. Their men are worn out by privation, cold and the specter of winter, and instead of their former self-confidence, show depression."

Gen. Ruzsky said he considered the Balkan campaign merely an episode of secondary importance.

"It is not there," he declared, "that the fate of nations will be decided." Emperor Nicholas and the young heir, Alexia Nikolaevitch, last week made a tour of inspection which included the port of Riga and Riga and the military districts of Dvinsk and Vitebsk.

The Emperor and his son arrived at Riga Wednesday morning. They visited the naval fortress, examined the works and reviewed the garrison. After lunch the Emperor and the Grand Duke visited the harbor and boarded the transport Europe on which were drawn up the crew of a Russian submarine and the crew of a British underwater boat.

The Emperor personally decorated the two submarine commanders with the Port of the Order of St. George, fourth class. Later the imperial visitors boarded the Russian and British submarines and examined them in detail and then went to inspect the works in the town. The Emperor and Grand Duke later inspected the Naval Hospital.

Emperor Nicholas and the Crown Prince went to Riga on Thursday. Here the imperial train crossed to the left bank of the Dvina River and his party was received by Gen. Radko Dimitrieff, commanding the fortified district of Riga, with whom the Emperor and the Grand Duke drove to town in automobiles and reviewed troops detached from the corps defending Riga. The ruler thanked the troops for their heroic services.

$35,000,000 USED AGAINST ALLIES IN U. S., PAPER SAYS

Providence Journal Declares This is 4-Months German-Austrian Outlay.

COUNCILOR IS ACCUSED

Dr. Albert and Count von Bernstorff Alleged to Have Paid to Spread Propaganda.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 15.—The Providence Journal today says in part:

"A vast fund of money amounting to between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000 has been spent in this country in the past four months for propaganda work against the allies, under the immediate supervision of Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, and Dr. Heinrich Albert, privy councillor, who describes himself to a Journal representative as the 'fiscal agent' of his government. The Journal has a positive record of the receipt by Ambassador von Bernstorff and Dr. Albert of at least $10,000,000 in the time mentioned. A great deal of this money has come through the Guaranty Trust Company of New York and most of it has been immediately transferred to the Chase National Bank and other banks in which Dr. Albert and Ambassador von Bernstorff keep a joint account.

"The Journal charges that not one dollar of this money has been spent for legitimate purposes, but that all of it is going for propaganda work of the most vicious description.

"Says German Fund Is Used. "One item alone, the maintenance of bureaus for dragging men out of munitions factories, amounts to many millions of dollars. The expenses of the consular service of Germany and of the embassy reach the various officials through regular channels, which are in no way connected with the fund referred to. It is believed that the entire cost of propaganda work conducted by Austrian Consul-General in New York is financed from this German fund.

"Dr. Albert was interviewed in his office, in New York City, last Friday, by a Journal representative, and was asked whether the financial transactions in which he had been recently involved covered legitimate operations of a character which he could explain in general to the public, and he refused to make any statement.

"He was then asked if he would deny that he had received, personally, over $2,000,000 from his Government in the past two months, and if he did not, in Sept. 8, receive, through the Guaranty Trust Co., the sum of $2,000,000 for 'acordonica' work.

"The question was based on a wire, less dispatch received by the Guaranty Trust Co. on Sept. 8, through Sayville, N. Y., reporting to come from the Litmus company of Berlin, really the Berlin Foreign Office, and which read as follows:

"'Acordonica. Pay on application to Geheimrat Heinrich Albert, New York, $2,000,000. Notify him; let us know by wire when part of payment is done. Cash receipt of telegram.'

"Declines to Make Statement. "What do you mean by asking me a question like that?" Dr. Albert said.

"We mean," said the Journal representative, "that Acordonica is the code word used by both the German Ambassador and yourself in communicating with Berlin and that it designates the particular account for which the money is to be expended."

"Dr. Albert replied: 'I refuse to make any statement whatever to the Providence Journal or to anybody else. I will make no statement, no matter what you print.'

"Count von Bernstorff, within a period of a week, just before the breaking up of the Huerta plot, got over $300,000. The Government has in its possession evidence of these large transfers.

"On Sept. 22 Dr. Dumba sent this wireless message to his Minister of Foreign Affairs in Vienna, from Lenox, Mass.

"I reiterate my telegram of the 15th. If I am not empowered by the 20th of the current month to receive the sum of $1,115,000 for the Hungarian postal administration, I will be compelled to pay the whole amount. I beg you to acknowledge receipt of this telegram.

"The words, 'Hungarian postal administration,' are, of course, a blind in the case, because under no circumstances could Dr. Dumba be addressing a communication to the Minister of Foreign Affairs with regard to such a matter. It is declared that the amount referred to was connected with a transaction through the Transatlantic Trust Co., and that the reference to the Hungarian postal administration means 'the Transatlantic Trust Co.'

"The Journal prints this morning facsimiles of communications from the Austrian Consul-General in New York and the Austrian Consul-General in Philadelphia to individual workers in munitions factories, who have written to them for an explanation of the advertisements appearing in a great number of foreign language newspapers, and these such workers with dire penalties if they withdraw at once from their employment.

Nineteen business men of Alton and officials of Madison County landed from a launch at Alton early this morning after having been stranded upon a breakwater in the Mississippi River from 7:30 until 11:30 o'clock last night. The party had been week-end guests of the Union Club upon Onion Island and started for Alton about dusk. After about two hours of waiting for aid Deputy Sheriff Getzinger and Tony Dietz of Alton took the small skiff that had been in tow of the launch and reached Grafton, Ill.

HOME RULE WOULD MEAN WIDE OPEN TOWN, SAYS UDELL

Alderman Tells Ministers That Is Why He Opposed St. Louis Self Government.

ALDERMAN C. E. UDELL, in an address today to the conference of Baptist ministers in the Metropolitan Building on "The New Spirit in City Government," said that he did not advocate complete home rule for St. Louis. The saloons and the Sunday closing question, he said, were the only things that prevented home rule. With the city in control of the appointment of the police and the Excise Commissioner, he said, there was no doubt that the town would eventually be run wide open.

The city, Alderman Udell said, expended $15,000,000 annually, of which $300,000 went for salaries. He commended Water Commissioner Wall who had, he said, given St. Louis the finest system of waterworks and the finest water in the world. The Commissioner, he said, was not to blame for the irregularities recently made public. Udell said he saw a letter written by Commissioner Wall to the Comptroller a year ago in which he criticized the collection methods in the water rates office and said that the system was so loose a hat could be thrown through it. The recent scandal had arisen, Udell said, because Commissioner Wall's advice was not taken.

TRAFFIC OFFICIALS EXPECT LOSS FROM NEW JOINT RATES

Disappointed in Public Service Board's Order for Mileage Tickets at 2-Cent Rate.

RULING ON DEMURRAGE

Increases in Passenger and Freight Rates Granted to Missouri Southern.

Traffic officials of railroads with general offices in St. Louis said today that they were not certain as to the exact extent of the increases in rates ordered Saturday by the Missouri Public Service Commission, or just what the effect would be on the general revenues of the companies.

The increase from 2 cents to 2½ cents in passenger rates ordered Monday by the commission shows there have been decreases in the rate of many classes of freight on hauls of less than 50 miles, and general increases for longer hauls within the State.

How Revenues May Be Reduced. It is expected by railroad men, however, that an order requiring the railroads to put into effect a joint through rate on freight shipments handled by more than one railroad will mean a reduction of the companies' revenues from such shipments.

As an illustration, a rate expert traced a shipment of wheat from Cuba, 200, on the Frisco, to Jefferson City, which is on the Missouri Pacific.

The shipment would move by way of Pacific, the nearest rail connection between the roads. The rate on wheat for 14 miles from Cuba to Pacific is 7 cents a 100 pounds. For the 80 miles from Pacific to Jefferson City it is 8.5 cents. In the past the railroads have charged for such a shipment the total of the two local rates, which would be 15.5 cents. Under the new order the railroads would be required to handle the shipment on the basis of a continuous haul for the distance, 142 miles, or 11 cents, plus an arbitrary charge of 2 cents, making the total rate 13 cents, or 25 cents less than it would have been under the old order.

Although the railroads asked a passenger rate of 2 cents a mile, it is recalled that railroad men last winter privately said they did not expect to get more than a 2½-cent rate. They today expressed disappointment at the commission's order for them to issue transportation books of 500 and 1000 miles at 3 cents, and to sell round-trip tickets at 2½ cents. They said that approximately 25 per cent of their business in Missouri comes from regular travelers who would purchase mileage books.

Demurrage Rate Ruling. The commission's order increases the demurrage rate on all refrigerator or other fully insulated cars, when held by the shipper after the free time allowed. This rate, formerly was $1 a day a car. Under the new ruling, the rate, when held for loading or unloading, will be $1 a day for the first three days, or fraction, $3 a day for the next three days, or fraction, and $5 a day for each succeeding day or fraction. When held for any other purpose, the charge will be $1 a day for the first

DESCRIBES AN AIR BATTLE 8000 FEET ABOVE THE EARTH

British Officer Tells How German Machine Was Sent Down, Both Occupants Killed.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—A spectacular air battle is described in a letter from an officer who witnessed an engagement in Flanders between a British and a German aeroplane. His letter reads:

"Thursday morning about 8 o'clock I heard the aeroplanes sentry blow his four whistles and put my head outside to see where the German was. The 'Archies' anti-aircraft guns were at him, and getting pretty close to him as he came over the battery. I could hear one of our machines up, and looking round saw him after the enemy. 'Archie' evidently didn't see him as they went on firing at the German until one round nearly hit our machine. Then they stopped."

"Then the real fight began. The German turned tail (they are much faster machines than ours), but our machine had his speed up and we could hear the two machine guns crackling up there in the blue—they looked like two wild birds."

"Then our machine got on top, and, looking through my glasses I saw some sparks cut away from the German and fall. The German did a nose-dive, righted himself for about three seconds, and then pitched head first to the ground. Evidently his propeller was shot away too, as his engine was roaring, making a terrific noise as he came down. Both the pilot and his passenger were killed and fell about 6000 feet from the ground. The machine fell about 6000 feet."

"The troops round here cheered our machine like mad—not that he could hear them. The two men who were in our aeroplane are absolute devils for this sort of thing, and have brought down several machines lately, although this is the first to fall in our lines. Altogether it was a magnificent sight, although one couldn't help feeling a little sorry for the German, but one of our telephonists said, 'I dunno, sir—he shouldn't try to come and play in our back-yard.'" three days, or fraction, and $5 for each succeeding day or fraction. The testimony in the case showed that this rule had been in effect in interstate shipments since April. It was endorsed by the National Traffic League, National Poultry, Butter and Egg Association, Western Fruit Shippers' Association, North Pacific Fruit Distributors and National League of Commission Merchants.

The commission states, in the opinion, that a practice has grown up among a certain class known as "curbstone" brokers, of receiving perishable shipments in refrigerator cars and using the cars as warehouses pending the disposal of the contents, because it was cheaper than transferring the contents to a warehouse.

Passenger and Freight Increases Granted Missouri Southern. JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 13.—The Public Service Commission announced today that it had granted permission to the Missouri Southern Railroad Co. for an increase in passenger rates to 3 cents a mile. The Missouri Southern is 64 miles long, extending from Leeper, where it connects with the Iron Mountain, northwest into the Ozark lumber regions.

An application for an increase in freight rates on car load lot shipments also was granted. The commission estimates that the increase will yield an annual return of 7 per cent on the property invested in hauling freight in car load lots. The major part of the freight business of the road is the hauling of lumber.

The commission ordered the reinstatement of sleeping car service on the Missouri Pacific Railroad between St. Louis and Joplin. The application for the resumption of sleeping car service was made by the Business Men's League of Carthage. The testimony in the case showed that since the Missouri Pacific abolished the service the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad had a monopoly of that business. It also showed that when in competition with the Frisco the Missouri Pacific had received a fair share of the business.

COURT DECIDES FOR WOMEN IN KENTUCKY ELECTION SUIT

They Are Appointed on Board of Education Despite Opposition of Election Officials.

NICHOLASVILLE, Ky., Nov. 13.—Four women have been held by the Circuit Court here to be entitled to certificates of election to the local Board of Education, and they have been accordingly issued, much to the surprise of the Election Commission and the public. This was the first time women had sought a place on the School Board. Those who won the election were Mrs. C. C. Carter, Mrs. W. J. Wolf, Mrs. Frank Folger and Mrs. C. A. Kenney. Their term of office begins Jan. 1.

The Election Commission refused to issue certificates to the women when they were denied of it, but passed the matter to the Circuit Court. As all the precincts except one in which elections were held were thrown out, the Commission expected the Court to hold the contest null and void. The one not thrown out, however, gave the women candidates a majority of 72 votes, hence the Court decided in their favor.

CUBANS OBJECT TO SCHOOLS DROPPING STUDY OF ENGLISH

Head of Educational Department Said to Be Anti-American in Sentiment.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 5.—The constitutionality of the order recently issued by the Secretary of Public Instruction to discontinue the teaching of English in the public schools of Cuba is being questioned, and it appears at present that the matter will be the subject of an appeal to the Supreme Court. President Menocal should, by decree, reverse the ruling of the Secretary of Public Instruction, who is Ezequiel Garcia, whose anti-American sentiment has been indicated on several occasions.

The Havana Post, a newspaper published in English, in an editorial which is said to be inspired by high legal authority, contends that the teaching of English in the public schools is obligatory in all grades except the first, by virtue of military order No. 236 of 1899, which, among other military orders of the first intervention, have been made laws of Cuba.

Law Is Explicit. The terms of the law are most explicit and leave no discretion whatever in the matter to the Department of Public Instruction beyond the arrangement of the courses of study. It is pointed out by the newspaper that the military order of 1899 directed a special appropriation to cover the expenses of English instruction in the schools and it is contended that this money cannot be legally diverted to any other purpose.

Article IV of the Platt amendment law, which is included in the famous amendment of the Constitution of Cuba, says: "All acts realized by the United States in Cuba during the military occupancy shall be ratified and held valid and all rights legally acquired through them shall be maintained and protected."

The Post therefore contends that not only have the children of Cuba been robbed of the right to instruction in English guaranteed them by the law of the land, but that the deprivation of this right constitutes a violation of the amendment of the Constitution.

Affects Poor Children. The abolition of instruction in English in the public schools most seriously affects the children of the poor, for there is not a single private school in the island in which English is not included as an important feature of the curriculum. It is declared that there is no doubt the action of Secretary Garcia was prompted by his anti-American feeling, it being asserted that among educational authorities generally there has been no demand for the abandonment of English.

The Secretary is reported to be in favor of the substitution of French for English, but the practicability of this is not plainly seen, since the French constitute one of the very smallest colonies in Cuba.

MRS. THOMSON TELLS WOMEN

How She Was Helped During Certain Ailments by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I am just 52 years of age and for a protracted period covering six years I suffered terribly. I tried several doctors, but none seemed to give me any relief. At intervals the pains were intense in both sides, and made me so weak that I had to go to bed. At last a friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and I tried it at once and found much relief. After that I had no pains at all and could do my housework and shopping the same as always. For years I have praised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me, and shall always recommend it as a woman's friend. You are at liberty to use my letter in any way."—Mrs. Thomson, 649 W. Russell st., Philadelphia, Pa.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to carry women so successfully through the many ailments and sicknesses known to them as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young. To do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a yellow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective.

They bring about that exuberance of spirits that nature intended for everyone to be enjoyed by everyone by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 150 and 350 per box. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Company, Columbus, O.

REV. JESSE T. CRAIG, AUTHOR, EDITOR AND CLERGYMAN, DIES

He Founded Several Missouri County Newspapers, and Wrote Under Pen Name of Miles Sandys.

BROWNVILLE, Tex., Nov. 15.—The Rev. Jesse T. Craig, author, editor and clergyman, formerly pastor of churches at Forest City, King City and Poplar Bluff, Mo., died here last night after a long illness from paralysis. He had been in declining health from a paralytic stroke more than a year ago which compelled him to retire from active work as editorial writer for a Brownville paper.

The Rev. Mr. Craig was born in Ray County, Mo., 64 years ago. He was admitted to the bar and practiced law in Ray and Carroll Counties. As a young man he founded several country newspapers in Missouri which are still running. He was nearly 40 years old when he was converted and immediately went into the ministry for the Disciples of Christ Church. He was the author of many poems, short stories and one novel, most of which were published under the pen name, Miles Sandys.

He came to Texas several years ago to become pastor of a church at Austin, but later removed to Brownville, where he retired from the ministry. He is survived by his wife and four children, James E. Craig of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch staff, Anne K. N. Craig, teacher of English in the Brownville high school, Jack D. and Kathleen Craig.

$40,000 PLEDGED AS 'FOR ST. LOUIS' CAMPAIGN OPENS

63 Organizations Will Try to Obtain $200,000 for Conventions Fund This Week.

The "For St. Louis" campaign to raise $200,000 to get the next Democratic and Republican National conventions started off this morning with signed subscriptions in excess of $40,000. Richard S. Hawes, chairman of the finance committee of the National Conventions Association, said he expected that the campaign would add at least $100,000 to that sum during the day.

It is the purpose to devote the entire week to the campaign to raise the money. It will require at least $100,000 for each convention. James E. Smith, chairman of the conventions association, said that if the money could be raised this week, there was the utmost confidence that St. Louis would win the big conventions. The conventions will be of extraordinary interest next year, on account of the effort of the Republicans to rehabilitate the party and the formation of platform on the foreign policies of the Government.

Committees representing 76 industries started out today to canvass every business and manufacturing establishment in St. Louis for subscriptions. In addition, 63 business and civic organizations are asking all their members to make individual subscriptions.

The Merchants' Exchange has appointed a committee headed by Christian Barnett to solicit subscriptions from every member. The Real Estate Exchange has appointed two men for each block. They will close up their campaign by Tuesday night. The Exchange has pledged itself to raise at least $1000. Dr. W. W. Graves this morning sent letters to 2000 physicians, asking each to contribute from $1 to $10. Fire Chief Henderson has asked each member of the Fire Department to contribute $1.

Payments about Jan. 1.

The campaign for subscriptions has been thoroughly organized. Subscribers to the fund sign subscription blanks, pledging themselves to pay to the association a certain amount, not earlier than Jan. 1, in the event St. Louis wins one of both conventions. If St. Louis should fail to get either convention, the subscribers will have to pay nothing. If it should get only one convention, the subscribers would pay only one-half the amount.

Congressman Jav's E. Meeker returned yesterday, after having yielded the Republican national committee in the South. He was sent out by the Republican organizations which are co-operating with the conventions association. Congressman Meeker said that the Southern committees were very favorably inclined toward St. Louis.

Lines in Seven North Central States to Get $200,000,000 a Year

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Railroads in the "third contract section" will receive $20,071,494 a year for carrying mails during four years, beginning July 1 last, under adjustments announced by the Postoffice Department. This is an increase of more than $3,000,000 over the annual compensation allowed under the adjustment of 1907.

Section three, largest of the four contract divisions, embraces Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Missouri.

In instances where there are two or more lines between common points, roads with the longer mileage have readily consented to decrease to retain the business.

UNUSUALLY SERIOUS MUSIC ENCORED AT "POP" CONCERT

Sincere Applause Regarded by Management as Evidence of Spread of Musical Taste.

A big audience at yesterday afternoon's Symphony Orchestra "Pop" concert at the Odeon was so well pleased with a program of music considerably more serious than that usually offered as to obtain encores for four out of seven numbers.

It was gratifying to the management an evidence of the spread of musical taste to have compositions like Schubert's overture to "Rosamunde" and Wagner's "Ride of the Valkyries" applauded with such sincerity. To the first Director Zach added Schubert's "Moment Musical" and to the second Wagner's "Albion Leaf." The appeal was made by the orchestra alone, as it was unaided by a soloist in yesterday's program.

The other regular numbers were Chopin's Nocturne in C Minor, transposed from the piano; a "Berceuse" by Paul Juon, a Russian composer, which was transcribed from the piano this summer by Zach himself; Massenet's suite, "Scenes Pittoresques"; Gounod's "Funeral March of a Marionette" and Grieg's "March of Homage" from "Sigurd Jorsalfar." The third and fourth encores were Massenet's "Twilight" and Tchaikovsky's waltz from the "Sleeping Beauty Ballet."
Massenet's "Twilight" made an especial impression, a dreamy melody being passed about among Concertmaster Ole Ludwig Pieter, first cellist, and John F. Alburn, first flute. "The Ride of the Valkyries" and the Grieg march were both played in rousing fashion, and Zach's transcription of Juon's sketch was interesting for its odd but effective orchestral combinations.

NATURE'S ROMANCE SHOWN IN RUSKIN MOTION VIEWS

Animal Life of Many Forms and Sizes Displayed on Screen at the Olympic.

Nature's romance, in the daily toil and struggle of living creatures, is shown in Dr. John W. Ruskin's moving pictures, which began a week's display at the Olympic Theater yesterday. The subjects of the pictures range in size from tiny insects to the elephant and the lion, with birds and fishes included. All are shown in their own homes, and in the relations of normal existence, not in captivity.

Dr. Ruskin, in his accompanying talk, told of having spent 10 years in obtaining the views, which represent a selection from a very large expenditure of time. He also corrected some popular impressions as to different creatures, whose movements he showed. The asp, he said, is not a snake, as most persons since Cleopatra's time have supposed, but a legless lizard with poisonous propensities. The salamander will not stand the traditional test of fire, he said, and is very poisonous. The dragon fly was shown in a magnified view, which made him ludicrously like a baseball fan, "rooting" in the grand stand.

The insect and bird pictures would have delighted the late Henri Fabre, "the Homer of the insects," the pictures of larger animals, made in Africa and in polar regions, had a disconcerting intimacy, and the cruelty of the leopard, most vicious of beasts, which prefers to torture small animals and fowls, without killing them, was vividly shown. The speaker frequently referred to the animals by the pronouns "who" and "whom," and under the circumstances, this seemed wholly appropriate. The strategies by which the "close-up" pictures were obtained, were interestingly described.

POPE REPORTED TO HAVE BROKEN CUSTOM BY LEAVING VATICAN

Italian Newspaper Says Pontiff Visited Church Adjoining the Apostolic Palace.

ROME, Nov. 14.—Pope Benedict has made an important departure from the custom of the pontiffs by visiting the church of Saint Anna, adjoining the apostolic palace, and thus going outside the vatican precincts, according to the newspaper Giornale d'Italia.

Since the fall of temporal power, one form of papal protest against the new order of things has been the seclusion of the pontiffs in the Vatican.

ARRESTED IN HOTEL WITH GIL, SIGNS AGREEMENT WITH WIFE

Marion E. Bennett said to have promised to "disappear" his suit for divorce.

Mrs. Pauline Bennett, 22 years old, of 2325 1/2 California avenue, at 12:10 a. m. today caused the arrest of her husband, Marion E. Bennett, 25 years old, superintendent of printing for the United Railways Co., when six and two police men found him at the Rex Hotel, 4033 Olive street, with a young woman who said she was Clara Walse of 1715 California avenue. Bennett gave his address as 4011 Page boulevard and said he and his wife had been living apart.

After Bennett and the young woman had been held at the Newstead avenue station two hours, Bennett and his wife signed some agreement and went away.

together. The young woman also was released. Mrs. Bennett at her home this morning said her husband, in the signed agreement, promised to dismiss a divorce suit which he filed about a month ago. When this was done, she said, she probably would file a suit for separate maintenance.

COUPLE GO INSANE IN CHURCH

YONKERS, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Willy G. Hollworth, until recently chief chemist for the Speckles Sugar Refinery, and his wife, both went insane here yesterday when attending service in St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Women members of the congregation fled as the couple tore their clothing and began to shout incoherently. Hollworth and his wife came to Yonkers from Germany and had worried over the war.

RECTOR DANCES ON TABLE IN "CABARET BELT;" LOCKED UP

The Rev. Frank Poole Johnson of New Orleans Gave Away $1 Bills to Spectators.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 15.—The Rev. Frank Poole Johnson, rector of the Episcopal Free Church of the Annunciation, invaded the "tango and cabaret belt" Saturday night, with the result that he was locked up in a police station for more than an hour. He was charged on the station blotter with being drunk and disorderly. He did not preach yesterday. His case is being considered by a church official.

When released, Dr. Johnson said to reporters: "Boys, I am deeply humiliated. I also have a headache. I am going home and to bed. I probably did make a spectacle of myself."

Efforts to get a statement from him as to his reasons for visiting the gay night life district were unsuccessful. A police sergeant told of the arrest. "I was called into Alfano's place," he said, "by a waiter who told me a man was in there giving away wads of money. In the back room I saw a tall, handsome man doing a clog dance on a table. He was surrounded by cabaret girls, waiters and men visitors to the place. He would cease his dancing and distribute $1 bills to the girls. He had pockets full of them."

"The girls said he had danced with them, was 'some tango stepper' as well as a clog dancer. He let out a whoop at me and I decided to take him to the station for safe keeping. I did not learn his identity until after he had been locked up." The rector is said also to have sung, "I'm the Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo" and other lively songs.

PULITZER SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM AN ENTIRE SUCCESS

President Butler of Columbia University Reports on Three Years' Operation.

PLAN FOR GIVING PRIZES

Dr. Butler Now Expects That Principal of $1,000,000 Will Be Turned Over.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Since the opening of the Pulitzer School of Journalism, which was founded three years ago at Columbia University, by the late Joseph Pulitzer, it has been in entirely successful operation and takes its place as the leading school of journalism in the country, according to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the university, in his report given out today. He adds that the success of the school is a matter of common knowledge.

In view of these facts, Dr. Butler states that it is to be assumed that the executors of the will of Mr. Pulitzer will now feel warranted, under the terms of the testament, to turn over to the school the whole principal set apart for it, or $1,000,000, which is in addition to the $1,000,000 turned over to Columbia University by Mr. Pulitzer. The establishment of a system of prizes and scholarships will soon be completed, thus fulfilling all of the standards for the school set by Mr. Pulitzer before the principal left by him was to be paid over.

Graduates in Good Positions. Many graduates of the school are holding responsible positions on the staffs of New York dailies. Other graduates have gone out from New York to fill editorial positions. The high quality of scholarship demanded by Dr. Taft-Williams, director of the school, and his staff of professors, some of whom are editors of large dailies, also attests the success of the school.

In discussing the School of Journalism, Dr. Butler says:

"By the provisions of the will of the late Joseph Pulitzer, it was provided that, if, at any time within seven years after my death, my executors, then acting and qualified, shall be satisfied that, for three years, the School of Journalism has been, and then is, in successful operation, and, if, at or before that time, a plan for the awarding prizes or scholarships, contemplated by said agreement, shall have been agreed upon and adopted they shall pay the whole principal ($1,000,000) to Columbia University."

"The three-year period now has been completed, and it is a matter of common knowledge, which the University has supplemented by a marshaling of the specific evidence, that the School of Journalism has been, and now is, in successful operation. A plan for the award of the prizes and traveling scholarships to be established under the terms of Mr. Pulitzer's will was approved by the advisory board of the school of journalism on May 24, 1915."

"This plan was agreed to by the trustees of the university of June 7, 1915, and was tentatively approved by the executors and trustees of Mr. Pulitzer's estate on June 10 following. It may, therefore, be assumed that, as soon as the necessary formalities can be completed with the additional sum of $1,000,000 will be paid to the university and the plans of Mr. Pulitzer will go fully into operation."

Some Changes Suggested. "The three year experience, which has already been had suggests some changes of policy, not very great or very important, which will undoubtedly increase the effectiveness of the School of Journalism and make its relation to the rest of the university more definite and more helpful than at present. It has already been demonstrated that, for the training of such journalists as Mr. Pulitzer contemplated when making his bequest, more time is required than was supposed at the outset and greater concentration of energy and of purpose."

"To make this possible, it will be desirable so to restate the conditions of admission to the School of Journalism as to secure students somewhat more mature and somewhat more effectively trained in the preliminary subjects. Students of greater maturity and better preliminary training will then be able to devote themselves, as in the case of students of law, medicine and engineering, exclusively to preparation for the work of journalism."

"They will no longer be required to spend a considerable part of their time either in supplementing the deficiencies of an earlier education, or in acquiring that elementary knowledge that should be obtained elsewhere than in a professional school. It is to be hoped that such a readjustment as is here outlined can be made in season to take effect at the beginning of the academic year 1917-18."

"The carefully planned system of prizes, as established by the terms of Mr. Pulitzer's will, puts a new and difficult obligation upon the university. The plan for the award of these prizes will, however, assure to the university the best possible counsel in making selections of those to receive the awards. This plan, including a statement as to the number, character and amount of the prizes, will be made public just as soon as the fund for the endowment of the prizes is received by the trustees."

Propagandists Censured. Efforts of propagandists to influence students at Columbia University and to prevent the free expression of opinion such as the university are censured by Dr. Butler.

statements and opinions, are referred to by Dr. Butler and stigmatized as displaying stupidity and narrowness, or as due to an effort to promote a cause in which the writers are interested. In one instance an official in this country of one of the belligerent Powers wrote to President Butler, attacking an officer of the university as a slanderer. Concerning the exploiting of American youth, Dr. Butler says: "A well-organized group of American youth such as is to be found at any college or university of considerable size offers almost irresistible temptation to propagandists. Any attempt to protect the students or the reputation of a college for society and sanity of judgment is attacked as a movement toward suppression of free speech. In particular, the agitation in favor of woman suffrage, prohibition and Socialism is most active in seeking to use colleges as agencies of propaganda."

for our St. Louis

A campaign will be started in this city this morning to raise the guarantee fund of $200,000 to secure the National Political Conventions of 1916.

St. Louis is Doing Things Let's keep it up—let's make this campaign successful—triumphant Seventy-six committees have been appointed to get subscriptions from all of the business interests of our St. Louis.

The sum required divided among the houses in each line can easily be raised without making the burden heavy on any one concern.

When you are called on for the amount allotted to you we hope you will respond promptly and cheerfully.

We are certain that each house will enthusiastically pledge the amount asked for

—for its own sake and for St. Louis.

No money will be called for on subscriptions before January 1st and not one cent will be called for unless we get one or both Conventions.

But we're going to get them—if you and you and you—all the business interests of this city, will subscribe the sums allotted to you.

We need your subscription pledge now—the National Committees of both parties will decide in Washington early in December where the Conventions shall be held.

You want—all St. Louis wants St. Louis to be the choice of both—

Then let's all join hands and with loyalty, liberality and service get what we've gone out to get.

If you will do your share we can call these Conventions ours.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

BARGE COMPANY READY; NO FACILITIES.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am inclosing herewith copy of a letter addressed to Mr. W. K. Kavanaugh, which letter I commend to your attention. In addition to this, permit me to point out that our calculations show, with the present total absence of any opportunity whatsoever to load and unload freight at St. Louis, it will take 100 hours more to load our 1600-ton barge than it would take were there on the river front a decent wharf and shed, with wagon road, connection and rail track connection. Of course, as familiar with the fact that St. Louis is considering the building of modern terminals and that the cause of the delay is that we have not hesitated in commencing our service now. At the same time, such service is under a very severe penalty on account of the total absence of any facilities on the river whatsoever and the City of St. Louis could at least remedy the penalty by temporary measures to some extent. It goes without saying that the City of St. Louis owes the obligation of taking such temporary measures to its citizens. It is the duty of a city. I am very glad to say that the present city administration is aware of this fact and has proposed to assist to the extent of building a temporary wharf and shed, etc. However, if the newspapers of St. Louis would give them strong support and call for such measure in their papers, it would, of course, strengthen the hands of the present city administration materially.

The total lack of any facility whatsoever as I said before, would cause about 100 hours' delay for each trip. Our barge is very modern and up to date and will undoubtedly make money and give economic, efficient service, providing such economic efficiency can be eliminated. The barge will cost every hour, day or night, $5.33. The absence of any facility will mean a delay of 100 hours, or 1583, or a necessary penalty of 40c per ton, which, of course, the citizens of St. Louis must pay in their freight bill. This 40c per ton or $583, means only the expenses of the barge itself and does not cover items of administration expenses or loss of profits which the large line will suffer, which will amount to about 30c per ton. In other words, the total absence of any facilities whatsoever costs 70c a ton, or more than the reduction we will be able to make on the average ton during the first years of operation.

How totally impossible it is to load and unload could undoubtedly be explained to you carefully in detail by Mr. W. K. Kavanaugh, on whom I urge you to call and who, I assure you, will be glad to place his time at your disposal to make this matter clear.

President of the Inland Navigation Co.

Another "Patience Worth."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Prithce, good folks, why all this pother and stir about one "Patience Worth"? Mary Johnston in her book, "To Have and to Hold," a story of our Colonial days, alleged to have been founded partially on fact, tells us that Patience Worth was a serving maid to the Lady Jocelyn Leigh, the King's ward, who fled from England to escape an unwelcome marriage with the King's favorite. About a hundred maidens were brought to America in 1633-34 by the London Company, and were married to the Virginia planters, each man paying 150 pounds of tobacco for his wife's passage to America. Lady Jocelyn Leigh impersonated the maid, Patience Worth, came to America in the ship with the "maids" and was married to a Virginia planter, the founder of one of the old Virginia families. (Won't some of the P. F. V.'s please come forward and claim "Patience"? This bit of history was related when Mary Johnston published her delightful story, "To Have and to Hold," in 1899-1900.

Both Messrs. Reedy and Delroy are right in their statements as to the Patience Worth English, which was somewhat different and which is savored of the Bible, as Mr. Delroy says. This bit of history was related when Mary Johnston published her delightful story, "To Have and to Hold," in 1899-1900.

THE RAILROAD RATE INCREASES.

The significance of the action of the State Public Service Commission in granting increases of freight and passenger rates to the railroads lies in the Commission's recognition of its power and duty to regulate rates upward as well as downward when conditions justify it.

The Post-Dispatch has insisted upon the principle of fair dealing in regulation; that the exercise of this power to regulate carries with it the duty to increase rates when rates are too low for profitable operation, as well as to reduce them when they are excessive. We strove vigorously to induce the Commission to use its power in behalf of the railroads when the Legislature failed to relieve them.

Another duty the regulative power imposes upon the Commission charged with its exercise: That is to act promptly when necessity arises for action. When increases were sought by the railroads in accord with the Supreme Court's decision affirming the power of the Commission, times were hard; business was bad; traffic was lacking. The railroads needed relief more than they do now. Since then several leading Missouri railroads have gone into the hands of receivers.

In respect of time consumed in determining what increases to grant the State Commission has been nearly as derelict as the Interstate Commerce Commission was in dealing with the trunk lines. Promptness in regulative action is an essential part of justice.

Passenger rates are increased from 2 cents to 2 1/2 and 3 for one-way fares with reductions for return fares and mileage tickets. It is estimated that the increase of freight rates averages about 5 per cent.

Railroad managers say the increases are not sufficient. This is yet to be demonstrated. Conditions are different from those prevailing when the increases were asked. Business has revived and traffic is beginning to tax railroad capacity. The roads which complained that sufficient increases to relieve their distress were not granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission are now thriving. The State Commission has made a good beginning. Trial may prove that it has done enough for the roads. If not, the rates should be corrected promptly.

The list of American munition plants supposed to have been hyphenated since the war began has caused many exclamations points.

THE AMENDED BREAD-WRAPPING BILL.

As amended, the bread wrapping bill ought to pass without opposition and receive the Mayor's sanction. The objectionable features of the original bill have been eliminated.

The bill, in its new form, has for its chief object to insure the consumer that every loaf of bread is protected from dust, dirt and disease germs on its way from the bakery to the retailer and thence to the purchaser.

Bread must be handled. The utmost we can do is to make the handling sanitary as far as possible. And the chief danger lies in that handling which the loaves get in transit, on the streets, by men who are not bakers, but who must take care of their horses and themselves, with possible infection of the bread they handle. Under the new law, if passed, no bread will go through the streets without being thoroughly wrapped. It will be practically germ proof.

The small baker, who sells his product direct from the oven over the counter, and who in any case would wrap it on delivery, is exempted from the clause of the bill which provides for that style of wrapping which would compel him to buy an expensive machine. This, with the new provisions regarding pastry, makes the bill unobjectionable to the producers. And, this being the case, the health of the city demands its passage and enforcement.

The world is waiting for Kitchener and Constantine to converse.

GOING BEYOND THE COURT'S ALLOWANCE.

In a suit to collect $5000 attorney's fee for services in obtaining a divorce the testimony shows that the court in the divorce matter "allowed" fees of $3000.

How much in excess of what a court "allows" may be legally claimed as a fee? Is the limit in any case what the traffic will bear? May the parties contract to dispose of the alimony on a contingent basis unknown to the court?

If so, our lawyer-made laws ought to be revised in the interest of public policy. Divorce above all things should be an open court matter. The amount of alimony a lawyer proposes to take is a matter directly affecting social welfare, having a direct bearing on the propriety of the divorce itself. Certainly it has a bearing on the amount of alimony the court should grant. To protect the innocent and injured party to a divorce should be part of the court's business, and this protection should extend to supervising the relations of lawyer and client. Secret agreements as to division of the alimony are as much opposed to public policy and should be as abhorrent to courts as collusion itself.

What becomes of the fiction that an attorney is an "officer of the court" when he attempts to divide the alimony behind the court's back in excess of what the court allows?

INDIA'S HOUR TO STRIKE.

India has heard so many times that the war is going to result in greater participation in their government by the governed that she is beginning to believe it. At the meeting of the legislative Council at Simla, one of the members, Mohammed Shah, introduced a resolution reciting that "India should in the future be represented in the Imperial Conference" at London and directing the Secretary of State to bring the matter to the attention of the London authorities.

The fate of such proposals, and especially of those in England itself who might be inclined to favor them, has generally been to become a subject of ridicule. Kipling delighted to satirize the Liberal member of Parliament from Lower Tooting who, visiting India in top hat and frock coat, "talked about the blessing of British rule and suggested as the one thing needful the establishment of a qualified electoral system and general bestowal of the franchise." But the present Viceroy of India took the Shah's resolution seriously. Instead of being pigeon-holed, the plan will be the subject of representations in the proper quarter.

If peace is to bring political concessions for the Poles, for the Liberals of Russia, for the inhabitants of the "unredeemed" portions of Italy, for Serbs separated from the larger masses of their brethren and under the rule of alien races, why should it not bring concessions for the exploited Indians?

India and the member from Lower Tooting will never have a better hour to strike.

THE OLD TRAILS ROAD.

E. E. Peake of Kansas City told the Good Roads Committee of the Business Men's League that $15,000,000 has been spent in Missouri since 1912 for "dragging" dirt roads, without any appreciable improvement in the general road situation of the State.

Our system of appropriating for good roads must, of course, be changed. Devoted to some few specific projects, this $15,000,000, wasted on work spread over too much territory, and therefore an unimportant work, might have completed several hundred miles of splendid permanent roadway connecting important centers.

Appropriations for roads which will be built for all time and which, accordingly, will be expensive, cannot be spent in any one year in as many communities as appropriations for "dragged" roads. But roads built for all time are worth waiting for, and under a properly balanced, well-matured scheme of State road building all important communities would be reached in due time.

Instead of being scattered, effort for good roads must be centralized. It must proceed with definite objectives in view. Unless this is done, we will be taxing ourselves heavily for good roads without getting the good roads.

At present the finest opportunity for concentrated effort, and one that can be utilized without awaiting changes in existing law, is found in the St. Louis-Kansas City link of the Old Trails route to the West.

Of this link, 303 miles long, about one-third is now rock-surfaced. Plans for rock-surfacing the remaining two-thirds will have the co-operation of the Business Men's League. Each of the counties in which the road is uncompleted will raise an equitable sum, and the rest needed, estimated at about $150,000, will be supplied by St. Louis and Kansas City.

The local needs which urge the execution of this project before another season are reinforced by other needs. The great Lincoln Highway, already a thronged thoroughfare during the present season, runs to the north of Missouri. In respect to motor car travel from East to West, a travel expected to reach enormous volume, Missouri will be virtually sidetracked without an Old Trails route rivaling the comfort and convenience of the Lincoln route.

Booker Washington is his own monument.

A HELPING HAND TO HAITI.

The Haitian Senate by a vote of 26 to 7 has ratified the treaty with the United States after many weeks' delay. If it is approved by our own Senate, we will undertake in this republic the same supervision of national finances we have already assumed in the sister republic on the same island, Dominica.

Despite such occasional scandals as the one over the "temperamentally unfit" but "deserving" Democratic Minister James M. Sullivan, the arrangement seems to be working fairly well in Dominica. Success for our benevolent guardianship over the entire 29,000 square miles of the two republics would deprive the world's most cogent argument against self-government of much of its force.

Probably in no equal area of Darkest Africa has there been during the past 100 years any such record of vacillation in government and government policy, bloodshed, cruelty, insecurity of person and property and evidences of reversion toward complete barbarism as have marked the course of events in this beautiful island.

The extension of our activities for which these treaties provide is, of course, not to be looked on without misgivings. But they lessen the handicaps in executing our policy in the Western Hemisphere. They extend a helping hand in changing the most favored and productive island of the seven seas from a plague spot into a civilized community.

The advocates of rival treatments for stammering, in the public schools, will probably agree that the m-m-main thing is to c-c-cure 'em.

WOMEN AFTER THE WAR.

Before the outbreak of the war, according to Katherine Anthony, in her book, just published, "Feminism in Germany and Scandinavia," there were in Germany 800,000 more women than men, and in Austria-Hungary, women outnumbered men by 600,000, making a total of 1,400,000 "superfluous women," as the author styles them.

Of course, the tremendous increase in male fatalities due to the greatest war of all time will make this disparity in the sexes in the central empire much more pronounced. And already there is a demand that the state shall take steps to increase the birth rate, which, even before the war, was falling in these countries somewhat alarmingly. One result of that demand will undoubtedly be to put power into the hands of the women and add impetus to the Feminist movement.

According to the writer of this book, Germany, before the war, contrary to the understanding of outsiders, had a powerful and growing New Woman movement. She gives a long list of Feminist organizations and of periodicals published in the interest of the movement.

One of the principal aims of the Feminist movement in Germany is the protection and care of illegitimate children, of whom 180,000 are born annually in that country. And the women in that movement insist that such children could properly be the wards of the state and entitled to its support.

The probable effect of this ideal and of the impetus it will undoubtedly receive by the war upon the family as we now know it, will alarm those who have never studied the problem. There is every indication that, in Germany at least, the family ideal is rapidly giving way before that devourer of old-time concepts—state socialism. And the Feminists seem to be doing their best to bring this about.

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the POST-DISPATCH
by Clark McAdams

MR. ANTWERP had read everything in the postoffice by noon, and he was ready to talk.

"The birth rate problem has arisen in Europe," he said. "Even the Germans are not meeting the requirements of war. A scientific commission which has been investigating the subject strongly recommends that something be done to make the birth rate offset the death rate. The death rate has been tremendously stimulated by the war, and it is necessary for the birth rate to be stimulated, too. There must be no more unmarried people, and as far as that can be rendered impossible there must be no more childless homes or small families. Every man who can be born is needed at the front, and every woman who can be born is needed for the sons she will send to the front."

"One may wonder why a scientific commission has been appointed to make this inquiry. I will explain. I didn't read it anywhere, but I just figured it out. If science can be interested in the matter it can probably be relied upon to devise a means of getting a man past childhood a little quicker, so he can fight. There is no telling what might be done. It may be possible to shorten the wait between birth and manhood by one-half. This would get boys out on the front in about eight years. You know, this is a scientific war, and if something of that sort could be done it would be no more than has already been done in physics. Both babies and babyhood are a problem in Europe now. There is a most unfortunate delay."

Winston Churchill, the novelist, who is here looking over the scenes of his childhood, says we must be second on the seas. A novel showing just what will happen to us if we don't do something of the sort might be the means of arousing a country which is not imaginative enough to see what will happen to us.

A hydroplane making 40 miles an hour (when it runs) is to carry the mail 600 miles down stream on the Magdalena river from Bogota, United States of Columbia, to the coast. It will afford one of the finest mail services in the world (when it runs).

An Indiana couple has been wedded on the telephone. If it did its courting on the telephone, it would be safe to wager that nobody else on the same line sent any wedding presents.

Maybe the Germans would not trade their plight in Bosnia for that of the allies at the Dardanelles, but they would probably consider it.

Booker Washington will like the next world, because, as we are given to understand, there are no Jim Crow laws in it.

New York is estimated to have a population of 5,498,982. Patience Worth is out there, too, which makes 5,498,982.

SHE CAME TO HIM.

SHE came to him one starry night,
And, as a rose leaf lightly blown,
Her little hand, so pinkish-white,
Was bravely placed within his own.

How glad, how more than glad, he was
To have her hand in his—to know
That she had placed it there because
She could not tell her own heart no.

What matter that the timid dove
Could scarcely fly where he would go?
The proudest mountain kneels to Love—
Their Master, as of long ago.

And though the way was wild and rough,
Why should he care? Her hand was there
Within his own—that was enough
To lead him safely anywhere.

And so they went down through the years,
Her trusting hand close held in his;
To where Time's warden—Death, appears—
Where Truth is seen, and Glory is.

Caryle, Ill. OLYDIE ADDISON WRIGHT.

The President has reinstated an Illinois Postmaster who was removed by his superiors in the department for criticizing that the admiration of one courageous man for another has smoothed the thing over. It did seem that the President had no time for romance when all the world was in flames, but it was quite as true in the Postmaster's favor that he had never seen Mrs. Galt. It ends well and logically, in our opinion.

Gen. Busky says of the army of Gen von Hindenburg that by not advancing the Germans are retreating. It is never quite plain just what the Russians do consider a retreat. They never have one themselves, though they sometimes run like all got out.

British Tommy (somewhere in France)—Speak English, Moscovite?

French Tommy: But—yet—a little, m'sieu.
British Tommy: Right, then give us 10 pounds of spuds, an 'arnce o' baccy, a packet o' fags and a box o' lights, an' be alippy!—Passing Show.

The Austrians will put the Italians in the war if they are not careful.

A PRAYER FOR PEACE.

U FION the reeking altar, Mias,
We pile our slaughtered dead.
We heap, top high, our funeral cars;
The hills and plains run red.
Earth lifts its bloody head,
And cries thee for succor.
When will thy just be fed?
When will thou send us peace?

Up to thy throned, on crutch and chair,
We lead a mangled host,
Whose eyes are black with dull despair,
Whose arms and knees are lost.
By these we pledge thee, Mias,
And beg thee stay thine arm.
We've kept thy bloody feast,
Nor stinied aught of harm.

Around thy feet, with hearts bare,
A million widows plead,
That thou wilt spare them, what is left.
Oh, to their cry give heed!
Now, in our hour of need,
Make end to them, thy wars,
Forever thy gristy creed,
We pray thee, mighty Mias.

A Billiken Weakness: The Rooters, Not the Players, Do the Kicking

MR. SHORT SPORT: Shorty is probably the only "Piker" who hasn't heard of Washington's victory

By Jean Knott

DARK OUTLOOK FOR BILLIKEN ELEVEN IN FINAL BATTLE

Keogan's Team Will Meet Toughest Foe of Season in Georgetown, Turkey Day.

WEKEMAN MAY PLAY

Fullback Leaves Hospital and Has Hopes of Rejoining Squad This Week.

By W. J. O'Connor.

Defeat at the hands of Washington Saturday proved such a shock to St. Louis U. players and their followers that they haven't yet fully recovered. Rumors to the effect that George Keogan would be supplanted by Johnny Bender were circulated yesterday, but only among those who were on the wrong side of the betting. Keogan's contract has two more years to run and no one in authority at the Billiken school has given the slightest intimation that it will be abrogated.

Saturday's defeat wasn't so much Keogan's fault as it was Artie Thomas' failure to kick in anything like true form. Keogan's team was coached too well on the offensive to the neglect of the defense and completely to smash with the collapse of Thomas' educated toe.

Washington, on the other hand, was a surprise to everybody because of the subtle method Coach Edmunds used in uncovering Puff Martin, one of the real stars of the game. The loss of Touchstone proved in no way damaging as Martin's superior efforts more than overbalanced this eleventh-hour withdrawal of a seasoned quarterback.

Billikens Almost Stale.

Indeed, Edmunds fooled even his camp followers. He allowed his team to practically loaf during the last week of training and his men went into the game in the proverbial pink of condition, enduring much better than the Billikens, who were scrimmaged well-nigh to death in the final week of preparation. The Billikens were somewhat stale, on at least, appeared so.

And this is in no way encouraging in view of the fact that Georgetown calls Turkey Day a team that ranks well up among the secondary eleven of the East.

Georgetown upset the North Carolina Aggies Saturday, 25-0, indicating that the Washington (D. C.) eleven is rumbling along at top speed just now. A miraculous improvement on the part of Keogan's men will give them a crushing defeat in the final game of the season.

Wekeman Quits Hospital.

Fullback Charley Wekeman of the St. Louis U. eleven, who was injured in Saturday's game, was released to St. John's Hospital, where he is now resting. He is probably well on his way to recovery and is expected to be able to play in the final game of the season.

Washington will lose four valuable men in Gray, Capt. Lewis, Berry and Westel this fall, but there is a promising crop of freshmen coming up for the varsity. It will be something but easy to replace such players as Berry, Gray and Lewis, however, as they were the stars of the Billiken eleven this season.

Should Wekeman fail to fully recover from his nervous shock, the Billikens will be in a bad way. The Georgetown game will probably be out for the season. His team doctor was hurt again Saturday and he will not be allowed to practice at all this week. Wekeman's injury was a surprise, as he was supposed to be a sure thing.

Washington men cling to the belief that Bill Berry played the most important part in Saturday's victory. Berry didn't kick a single point, but he was the only one who was able to kick in the game. He was the best exhibited by Edmunds' men. Edmunds' great playing was a surprise, as he was supposed to be a sure thing.

WRAY'S COLUMN

A Triumph for Amateurs.

TIME was when it was thought neither Washington University nor St. Louis U. could put into the field a worthy football eleven, if strict eligibility rules were adhered to. Saturday's fine exhibition by the Billikens and Pikers completely spoiled this theory.

Two good teams played an extremely interesting contest, played it well and played it to the satisfaction of almost as large a crowd as saw the famous near-professional machine of Eddie Cochems perform in 1907.

The eleven which played yesterday was "eligible" in the strictest sense. No rules in the United States are more severe than those of the Missouri Valley Conference, which are the basis for both institutions' regulation of sports.

Yet, even with freshmen and first year men on the sidelines, both eleven displayed considerable strength and some good ball. The teams were not as strong as the famous recruited outfit of 1908-1907, but in the field by St. Louis U., but they pleased the crowd very bit as much.

With football thus once more firmly based on the right foundation, there is every reason to believe that, in the near future, it will become as popular with the public here as it is in other cities of big league class.

As It Is Elsewhere.

HOWEVER, St. Louis is far from being in the running, as a football center. In Pittsburgh, which is many thousands below St. Louis in population, the Pittsburgh University team has drawn as high as 25,000 persons to Forbes Field this year. Cleveland, Boston, Baltimore, Minneapolis and other cities send large delegations to the important football contests.

But St. Louis has been a dead one since the communication of local sentiment by the success of the 1907 St. Louis U. machine. A reaction from bickering amateur professionalism set in, and the crowd was hard to rekindle.

The reawakening of local football sentiment will date from yesterday's St. Louis U.-Washington battle.

Some Football Season.

With the playing of the Harvard-Yale and other important championship games at next Saturday, the climax of the 1915 football season will have been passed. A few struggling games of consequence will be left for later decision, such as the Army-Navy, Cornell-Pennsylvania and Missouri-Kansas, but most of the year's big collegiate fixtures will have been decided.

Georgetown Vs. St. Louis U.

IN the rest of the United States, next Saturday's games include Georgetown vs. Colgate, Syracuse vs. Dartmouth, Illinois vs. Chicago, Wisconsin vs. Michigan, and others. The only one of championship bearing are those of the Big Nine conference. It would take a Philadelphia lawyer to straighten out this class in the game, as between Minnesota and Illinois. Of course, a defeat for either would help some.

The Georgetown-Colgate contest will interest St. Louisans inasmuch as the following Thursday Georgetown comes for its Thanksgiving day battle with St. Louis U. Georgetown is strong, this year, and has a complete team, as Georgetown's Colgate may hammer the Georgetown team down to the St. Louis U. size if they become real rough. And Colgate has the machine to do it, too.

Saturday's League Game.
McKinley, Cleveland, 0.
Other Games:
Smith-Manual 45, East St. Louis High.
Yeatman 13, Ranken T. S. 7.

Four games now remain on the scholastic football program here this season, that is excluding the contemplated contest between Englewood High of Chicago, Ill., and McKinley.

On Saturday Yeatman and Soldan teams will bring their schedules to a close when they clash at High School Field. The other contest of the day will be that between Central High and McKinley, which will be the final one for the Principia eleven, but will have a final condition for the high school team.

Then on Thanksgiving day Central and the Southsiders will open their struggle, which will determine the local scholastic supremacy. Should the Southsiders win they will own the undisputed "prep" title, while if Central is victorious a three-cornered tie between Central, Soldan and McKinley will be the outcome.

It is between Smith-Manual and Webster High, heretofore Smith Academy and Manual, that the annual Thanksgiving-day opponents, but the merging of the two academies has brought about the Webster game. This will be an annual game.

The St. Louis University Undergrads will journey to Upper Alton this week and play the Western Military Academy eleven. The game will wind up the season for both teams.

Last Saturday's "prep" conflicts resulted in little except a demonstration of the great chasm dividing the stronger scholastic outfits from the weaker ones. McKinley trounced Cleveland, Smith-Manual walloped East St. Louis High, Yeatman did have hard time in winning from Ranken.

A. A. U. to Uphold Taber.

THE Records Committee of the A. A. U. has recommended that the paced performances of Norman Taber and W. H. Meaux, made in a special meet at Boston, July 18, be made official. This is strictly according to precedent, for the quarter-mile records of Maxey Long, made at Guttenberg racetrack 12 years ago, were established under paced conditions.

The principle is dead wrong, however, and unfair to those performers whose only chance to be marked as to time is in competitive events.

Taber and Meaux were speeded up by alleged "competitors," who, in fact, were merely pace-makers. They were placed at intervals along the route in the mile run, handicaps being given them. Thus, as fast as Taber passed a nearer competitor, there was always a fresh man out in front of him, establishing an untimed pace. It is reported even that the last man, judging about to finish ahead of Taber, pulled out rather than finish in front of him and invalidate his performance.

However, it remained for Joe Ray to upset the glory of Taber. In the A. A. U. championships Ray worsted Taber in a mile event from scratch, thereby winning the national title.

Hoppe Opposes Yamada in First Handicap Match

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—A match between Willie Hoppe, the champion, and Koji Yamada will open an 18.3 handicap tournament here tonight. Most of the leading professional billiard players of the country will take part and the games will be played daily until the final on the night of Tuesday, Dec. 3.

SPORT SALAD BY L.C. DAVIS.

Billikens Buffaloes.

THE local football championship at last has been decided: Although the "Pikers" avon the game, it was not so blamed one-sided. The Billikens put up a scrap. Well worthy of their college. The Blue-and-White knows how to fight. The "Pikers" will acknowledge.

Bulldog Comes Back.

THE Bulldog and the Tiger fought, and both were brave and gallant. The Bulldog took the Tiger's paw. And thereby fooled the talent. The Tiger made a dandy fight. But in the pinch was not there. The Bulldog's grip. Refused to slip. And good old Bill got there.

Good Hunting.

THE Missouri Tiger went out duck hunting Saturday and bagged one large juicy Drake. The Tiger enjoyed the feast hugely. This was the first square meal he had had this season.

Mistaken Identity.

THE Princeton Tiger didn't fare so well, as he picked on a supposedly down-and-out Bulldog and got badly chewed up before he discovered his mistake.

The Billikens pulled a delayed rally in the last quarter, but delayed it a little too long.

He Fooled 'Em.

People were beginning to think that the Bulldog didn't have a license to beat anybody.

The Billikens' failure to bring home the proverbial is laid to Thomas' failure to kick up to standard. In fact it might be said he failed to kick up to, or between the standards.

Too True.

However, it was a nice little game and as they have frequently pointed out both sides couldn't win.

It is reported that Blue and White following want Johnny Bender back as Billiken coach. Query: Would Artie Thomas have kicked any better Saturday if Bender had been coach, instead of Keogan?

Not that we're telling any brief for Keogan, but where do they get that stuff?

Why a Contract?

KEOGAN's contract has two more years to run, but there is a clause in it which provides that the university can cancel the contract any time they are not satisfied with the coach's work. Which we claim is some document. But not for Keogan.

If we remember right, Johnny Bender's berth with the blue and white wasn't anything like a bed of roses. Every time the Billikens lost an important game a howl went up for the Benderian scalp.

However, as long as there is football there will be kicking. Kicking is getting to be one of the important features of football.

In regard to the Yale-Princeton game it can hardly be said that the better team won. To say the least worst team won would come nearer to it.

Oh, Shucks!

The Nebraska Cornhuskers claim the championship of the Missouri Valley. All right, guess we'll have to acknowledge the corn.

If the Missouri Tiger will only go out and wallope those Kansas Jayhawkers much will be forgiven.

National A. A. U. Title Meet Is Offered to Missouri A. A. Club Takes It Under Advisement

President Norton Newcomb States That M. A. A.'s Regular Indoor Event Is Set for Next March and, in His Opinion, Would Be Better Attraction.

That the National Amateur Athletic Union indoor championships may be held in St. Louis, the coming winter, is a possibility that developed yesterday, in New York, where the annual meeting of delegates to the A. A. U. is in progress.

President Tom Watts Jr., of the Western District A. A. U., St. Louis, is attending the convention. Yesterday, according to Post-Dispatch advice, Watts was informed by the A. A. U. heads that the M. A. A. of St. Louis would be favorably considered if it applied for permission to stage the annual indoor title event.

Watts immediately wired to Norton Newcomb, president of the M. A. A., for instructions regarding the acceptance of the proposition.

It was the intention of the Missouri A. A. to hold a revival of the club's annual meeting at the Coliseum. The last event of the sort occurred two years ago. One had been planned for last February, but the fire wiped out all chance of holding that feature.

Offer May Be Declined.

President Norton Newcomb of the Missouri Athletic Association told the Post-Dispatch that no decision had been reached as yet regarding the A. A. U.'s offer, he said.

"I received Mr. Watts' telegram this morning," stated the Missouri A. A. could have the 1916 indoor athletic meet, next March, and also that certain national swimming championships could be held by the M. A. A. pool.

"I have been thinking the matter over, but, of course, will not reach a decision until I have conferred with the members of the athletic committee."

"You see we had already practically agreed to hold our own annual indoor meet the same month as that set for the A. A. U. contests. As far as creating athletic interest here goes, it is my opinion that the college athletes would be fully as capable of making fine records. I feel sure that the college men would interest a larger circle here than would the A. A. U. champions. The advisability of substituting the A. A. U. meet will be thoroughly threshed out by the committee."

"As to the swimming events, I must have a talk with Whitaker before making up my mind to accept them."

Before departing for the East, President Watts told the Post-Dispatch he expected to ask for the national championships for next March. He did not specify whether the outdoor or indoor title was desired.

May Ask 1917 Outdoor Meet.

He hinted, however, that the 1917 outdoor championships would be sought and suggested arrangements for holding the meet at either Forest Park or the Stadium.

I fthe A. A. U. event comes to this city it will be the first time in the history of athletics that it has ever come west of the Mississippi.

The indoor event of the M. A. A., while it attracted 4000 persons to the Coliseum, was staged at a financial loss of $1000. The pick of the athletic world, especially of the college athletes, appeared in the events then.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 15.—The great running and all-around work of Craig, which was such a factor in Navy's victory over Colby Saturday, makes it almost certain today that he will start at quarterback in place of C. M. Miller in the game with the Army in New York Nov. 27. Craig was substituted for Miller when the latter was injured in the first period of Saturday.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 4 to 5 points from the previous session. The Liverpool cables and reports of killing temperatures in the Western belt January contracts sold at 11.90c and March at 12.17c on this advance.

The market soon eased off under realizing, with January reacting to 11.80c and March to 12.10c during the early trading. The weather report, however, was not so favorable, encouraged private predictions that the present cold snap would lead to killing temperatures over the entire belt.

HOGS—A good moderate supply was on the market while the market was as a rule rather lower, with most of the hogs sold at $4.50 to $4.75. Good butcher hogs were sold at $5.75 to $6.75 and American springs and unfavorable quality at the top level. There was little of importance in the market. Liverpool cable caused a slight advance just before the opening.

Firmness in Winnipeg on Saturday and strong English country markets were the main demand, causing a firm opening here, with offers light. The market was a percentage of a cent very firm. Shipments from America were large, but the market was the United Kingdom larger, but these were offset by strong Atlantic freights and a heavy demand for hogs, becoming hard to buy at advancing prices. While the mixed and plain grade sold at 55¢, the choice and extra choice grades were nervousness here. Corn is firm with scarcity of spot, firmness of Plata holders, strong Argentine freights and coldness in the United Kingdom increasing consumption.

Corn futures were quiet, but a fraction lower on the light trade. Later the market rallied with wheat, but the closing was irregular.

William

This is the Life! William becomes Real Sport for One Night Only—but the Re-acting is a Sad One, and It's Awful to Be a H-jerger.

By Paul West.

WHEN here, old dear; the next time any party comes up to you and says: "Gee, but I wish I had a job down in the Street, the hours is so short!" just put a stamp on him and address him to me. I got a new word meanin' "You're a liar," and I want to try it on him.

Short hours, eh? Just have the party that thinks that drop in on us any time between 7, ahen and 2 th' next mornin' and look us over. We'll be here, all right, and maybe later, if this rush keeps up.

You've been readin' the papers, a'ppear, or if you haven't you've been one of the bugs yourself—down here marketin' for war stocks—so you know how it's been goin'. But it's only us businessmen on th' inside what's wise to the real rush.

All th' guys what do the tradin' has to do is duck in our office, grab a silo of paper and take a slant at the quote board and then write down an order for to buy a couple o' quarts o' Foolish Preferred o' Burhouse Common, and then send 'round an' watch the ticker. But us poor guys, from the head clerk down—well, a one-eyed man tryin' to watch th' Kaiser, is got a stup compared to us. When the rush got goin' good, old Em Hatcher says to me:

"William," he says, "I won't be in me office much the next few days, and you won't be needed on my door, so I guess," he says, "you'd better hop out in front and make yourself generally useful 'round the place, because everyone looks kinder busy," he says, rubbin' his hands together and grinnin'.

So I hops out in front, and believe me, I'm needed. "Gee," I says to Smithy, when lunch time's comin' 'round, "I'll be glad to get out and take a half-hour's layoff!" "So'll I," says he, and we're just gettin' ready to duck when Sylvester, the manager, come 'round and says:

"Nobody out to lunch today. They'll be sandwiches and coffee bring in," he says, "and served in my office." And that's all we had for lunch, runnin' 'round with a cup o' coffee in one hand and a sandwich in the other, answerin' questions, telephonin' and I dunno what. And all th' afternoon it's just as bad.

WHEN the market's closed and you'd think we'd have time to take a couple o' full breaths, Sylvester comes around and says:

"Don't nobody ast to go home early today," he says, "because there's been a million dollars' worth o' business done here and it's goin' to take the entire staff till I dunno when to get things straightened out. Supper, he says, "I'll be served in my office, and per all invite in."

"Well, now, that's generous of him," says Smithy. "Yes," I says, "but I had a date to take a certain party to the movies tonight." "Oh, well, maybe we'll get off in time for that," says Smithy. "An' besides, havin' supper here on the house will be a you the price of it somewhere else," which was all right all right.

I was Genevieve O'Reilly out in the hall, 'bout home about six, and tells me I'll try to meet her like I promised. An' then I dunks in Sylvester's office with the gang to have my supper. The lawyer's all to the good, believe me, but they's one thing I noticed I didn't quite understand. 'Twas a pile o' coats over in the corner. Last Smithy what it's for.

"I dunno," he says, "maybe samples o' some that's goin' to be sent to th' Allies or somebody." But we pretty soon found out, because about 10 o'clock, when they'd worked us up to that time without a let-up, Sylvester says:

"Well, lads," he says, "it's been a hard day, and we ain't quite through yet. But," he says, "Em Hatcher wishes to do the right thing by everybody," he says, "so, instead o' makin' any o' you go way home," he says, "sleepin' accommodations is provided for you in my office."

"Well, they was some o' them made a dollar, but 'twas the only way, because, with everybody workin' with both hands and their noses, the books wasn't more than half done by 2 in the mornin', and by that time they was all too near dead to go anywhere.

THE next day it's just as bad, though we did get out to lunch and I had a chance to see Genevieve. And, say, between you and me, 'twas pleasant. I dunno, but honest, they's something about that skirt—not that I'm daffy over her or anything like that, but—well, she can open my letters any time she wants to!

"Honey, dear," she says, "I think it's a shame the way they're workin' you so hard, and tonight I was hopin' maybe you'd be up and eat on my sofa."

"Well, I told her they wasn't any chance o' my gettin' off that night, it lookin' worse than the one before: so when she's goin' home, about 6, she says she'll dream about me and be real sorry she can't of my workin' away all the night long. "But it," she says, "you should happen to be let off in time, try and run up, will you?" So I promised.

"Well, I didn't see any signs o' gettin' off and it kind o' riled me, but Smithy was worse."

"Gee," he says, "and I had a swell time on for tonight." "Where?" I says. "A friend o' mine who's shaffer for a twin guy that trades in this office," he says, "was goin' to borrow his big car tonight," he says, "and take about four or five out for a fine long ride, with a big supper," he says, "somewhere out in the country." "Wow!" I says, "that's what I like, too!" even if I hadn't ever been on one o' them kind o' racket. "I was goin' to ast you to go," he says, "only you'd go." "An. why not?" I says. "Ain't I as good a stag as you?" "Sure," he says, "but lately—well, I kinder thought you was keepin' company with Miss O'Reilly, and—anyhow," says Smithy, "I never thought for a minute there was goin' to be any gettin' off, and I guess Smithy didn't either, or he wouldn't o' been so free with his bids. But about half-past six in comes Sylvester."

"Well," he says, "I got good news 'r I like, too!" even if I hadn't ever been on one o' them kind o' racket. "I was goin' to ast you to go," he says, "only you'd go." "An. why not?" I says. "Ain't I as good a stag as you?" "Sure," he says, "but lately—well, I kinder thought you was keepin' company with Miss O'Reilly, and—anyhow," says Smithy, "I never thought for a minute there was goin' to be any gettin' off, and I guess Smithy didn't either, or he wouldn't o' been so free with his bids. But about half-past six in comes Sylvester."

ter-spot, so come on, quick!" Well, what could I do? I made the bluff about bein' independent, but I knew if Genevieve found out about it she'd lose the hairpins out o' her hair with madness. So I kind o' waited. "Aw, come on, be a sport!" says Smithy. And that settled it. "Where'll we go, Dooddy?" he says. "You know all the swell places better than I do. I named a place and later we hit the dinin' room. Then he tells me to do the orderin', and I on it, and we sure had a swell supper, all right, even if it 'd stand' him back over five numbers. Well, after that what could I do but blow to the swelllest seagars in the ranch—two for 50 cents! And then we beat it to keep our date. Smithy's friends there with the car, and it's a pipkin. There's two friends o' his with him, and they're the real boys, you can tell; but Smithy introduces me as a prominent young finansheer in th' office, and we're off. Well, I dunno where we went, exactly, but 'twas out in the country and a couple o' times we stopped and went in to get a drink. Not me. But I hung back and took seltzer and tried to be a sport.

FINALLY we hit the place we're goin' to have supper, one o' those road-houses with a bunch o' coon singers and prices on the bill o' fare that made me glad I wasn't doin' the treatin' for this bunch, though before it was half through I was I'd go to make a hole in that 10-dollar wheel or be called a piker, so I blew to the seagars a couple o' times more. 'Twas along about 11 o'clock when I begun to wonder was we goin' home soon, and worryin' about what a yap I'd been not to go up and see Genevieve instead o' chasin' out with this crazy mob. They're all singin' with the coons, and actin' foolish, and I'd been glad o' the chance to duck, but how could I—miles from home and in another guy's car!

At last they called for the check and started figurin' up, and I near had a fit when Smithy says: "Well, come on, Dooddy, chip in your share." "What's that?" I says. "Your share," he says, "this is Dutch treat, y' know. Well, what could I do? Seven dollars more out o' me ten-dollar beauty, and if I hadn't o' had more besides I'd o' been as broke as a soda cracker. Also was I mad? Oh, no, not a tall. But I never let on, only if they hadn't got started pretty soon after that I'd o' walked!"

Well, we're 'till some miles from home and most o' the bunch sleep after tellin' each other over and over what a grand time it had been, and wasn't we all real sports, and all that, when—well, just when I think that was all! We stopped dead! I'm the only one awake but the shoffer, and I says: "What's the matter?" I says, "I give it up," he says, and gets out to see. Then he looks up. "She's busted good," he says, "and how I'll ever get her fixed I don't know." "Then," I says, "how do we get home?" "I dunno," he says, "unless you all walk!"

"Well, well, lads," says Sylvester, lookin' at us. "The first down, my goodness, but you're a pair to be proud of! I'll bet those others went out last night and dissipated on the ten dollars Em Hatcher gave em, while you, wise lads, stole home and got a good night's rest. I'll tell Em Hatcher, and you'll hear from it!" What's that? says a voice that made me jump. "I was just congratulatin' Dooddy and Smith," says Sylvester, Miss O'Reilly, on bein' wise young men!" An' he tells her why. She comes and looks at me with a smile that made me ashamed of myself. "You dear boy," she says to me, and when I heard about your gettin' off early and not comin' up to see me I was mad. But you needed the sleep, and I'm glad you got it!" Ain't it awful to be a hypocrite!

answerin' questions, telephonin' and I dunno what. And all the afternoon it's just as bad.

WHEN the market's closed and you d think we'd have time to take a couple o' full breaths, Sylvester comes around and says:

"Don't nobody ast to go home early today," he says "because there's been near a million dollars' worth o' business done here and it's goin' to take 'em inure staff till I dunno when to get things straightened out. Supper, he says, "I'll be served in my office, and yer all invite 'n."

"Well, now, that's generous of him,"
says Smithy. "I've heard 'em say 'Trit
I had a date to take a certain party to the movies tonight." "Oh, well, maybe we'll get off in time for that," says Smithy. "And besides, haw! supper here on the house will er a you the price of it somewhere else," which was all right, all right.

I see Genevieve O'Reilly out in the hall, goin' home about six, and teller I'll try to meet her like I promised,
an' then I ducks in Sylvester's office with the gang to have my supper. "The lady's all to the good, believe me, but there's one thing I noticed I didn't quite understand. 'Twas a pile o' oats over in the corner. I ast Smithy what it's for."

"I dunno," he says, "maybe sample of some that's goin' to be sent to the Allego or somebody." But we pretty soon found out, because about 10 o'clock,
when they worked us up to that time
without a let-up, Sylvester says:

"Well, lads," he says, "it's been a hard day, and we ain't quite through
yet. But," he says, "Em Hailch wishes to do the right thing by everybody," he says, "so instead o' makin' any o'
you go way home," he says, "sleepin' accommodations is provided for you in my office."

Well, they was some o' them made a boller but 'twas the only way, because,
with everybody workin' with both hands
and their noses, the books wasn't more than half done by 2 in the mornin', and by that time they was all too near dead to go anywhere.

THE next day it's just as bad, though we did get out to lunch and I had a chance to see Genevieve. And,
say, between you and me, 'twas pleasant. I dunno, but honest, they's something about that skirt—not that I'm dat-ty over her or anything like that, but—well, she can open my letters any time
she wants to!

"Honey, dear," she says, "I think it's a shame the way they're workin' you so hard, and tonight I was hopin' maybe you'd be up and call on me."

"Well, I told her they wasn't any chance o' my gettin' off that night, it looks worse than the one before: so when she's gone home, about 6, she says she'll dream about me and be real sure to think o' my workin' away all the night long. "But it," she says, "you should happen to be let off in time, try and run up, will you?" So I promised.

"Well, I didn't see any sign o' Smithy
yet, and it's kind o' riled me, but Smithy wasn't there."

"Gee," he says, "and I had a swell time on for tonight." "Where?" I says.
"A friend o' mine who's shuffer for a bad guy that trades in this office," he says, "was goin' to borrow his big accountant," says "and take about four of us out for a fine long ride, with a big cougar," he says, "somewhere out in the country. "Wow!" I says, "that's what I like, too!" even if I hadn't even been on one o' them kind o' rackets. "I was goin' to ast you to go," he says, "only you bein' strictly stag I didn't suppose you'd go." "An, why not?" I says. "Aint it as good a stag as you?" "Sure," he says, "but lately—well, I kinder thought you was keepin' company with Miss O'Reilly, and—anyhow," says Smithy, "I heard her speakin' about you havin' a date with her this evenin' if you got off!" "Shooah!" I says. "That was only to please her." Then you'd go with our party if you could get off?" he says. "Nothin' would give me greater pleasure," I says. O' course, I never thought for a minute there was goin' to be any gettin' off, and I guess Smithy didn't either, or he wouldn't o' been so free with his tale, but about half-past six in comes Sylvester.

"Well," he says, "I got good news 'r you lads. No stayin' late tonight, and Em Hailch is so much obliged to all who done their duty last night that here's $10 in gold for each one." And he hands everybody a nice yaller slug. "An' now," he says, "we'll call it a day, and much obliged; only be sure, everyone, to be down good and early—no later than 7:30, if you please!" "Sure," says we.

WELL, the first thing I did was duck for my hat and coat, and I'm just startin' when Smithy comes out o' one o' the phone booths. "Wait a minute, Dooddy," he says. "It's all fixed. I've phoned my friend, the shuffer," he says, "and told him you was comin' with our party, and he'll have the car at the corner 'stead of by 7:30. That'll give us time for good supper, and I'll blow you on the

ter-spot, so come on, quick!" Well, what could I do? I made the bluff about bein' independent, but I knew if Genevieve found out about it she'd lose the hairpins out o' her hair with madness. So I kind o' waited. "Aw, come on, be a sport!" says Smithy. And that settled it.

"Where'll we go, Dooddy?" he says. "You know all the swell place better than I do. I named a nice and late we hit the dinin' room. Then he tells me to do the orderin', and I, one it, and we sure had a swell supper, all right. "Where'll we go, Dooddy?" he says. "You know all the swell place better than I do. I named a nice and late we hit the dinin' room. Then he tells me to do the orderin', and I, one it, and we sure had a swell supper, all right.

Smithy's friend's there with the car, and it's a pippin. There's two friends o' his with him, and they're the real boys, you can tell; but Smithy introduces me as a prominent young finansheer in the office, and we're off.

Well, I dunno where we went, exactly, but 'twas awfully nice. The country and a couple o' times we stopped and went in to get a drink. Not me. But I hung back and took setler and tried to be a sport.

FINALLY we hit the place we're goin' to have supper, one o' those road-houses with a bunch o' coon singers and prices on the bill o' fare that made me glad I wasn't doin' the treatin' for this bunch, though before it was half through I seen I'd got to make a hole in that 10-dollar wheel or be called a piker, so I blew to the seagars a couple o' times more.

'Twas along about 11 o'clock when I begun to wonder was we goin' home or not. I'd been to go up and see Genevieve instead o' chasin' out with this crazy mob. They're all singin' with the coons, and actin' foolish, and I'd been glad o' the chance to duck, but how could I—miles from home and in another guy's car!

At last they called for the check and started figurin' up, and I near had a fit when Smithy says:

"Well, come on, Dooddy, chip in your share." "What's that?" I says. "Your share," he says. "This is Dutch treat, 'er know." Well, what could I do? Seven dollars more out o' me ten-dollar beauty, and if I hadn't o' had more besides I'd o' been as broke as a soda cracker.

Also was I mad? Oh, no, not a tail. But I never let on, only if they hadn't got started pretty soon after that I'd o' walked!

Well, we're still some miles from home and most o' the bunch sleep after tellin' each other over and over what a grand time it had been, and wasn't we all real sports, and all that, when—well, just when! That was all! We stopped dead! I'm the only one awake but the shuffer, and I says: "What's the matter?" I says, "I give it up," he says, and gets out to see. Then he looks up. "She's busted good," he says, "and how I'll ever get her fixed I don't know." "Then," I says, "how do we get home?" "I dunno," he says, "unless you all walk!"

"No walkin' for me," I says. "I'll sleep here till you get her fixed." So we all curled up and tried to sleep. But all I could think of was Genevieve!

Well, about 5 o'clock the shuffer gets her goin' again, and we start back. It begins to get light as we're nearin' town, and I take a slant at my watch. "Six-thirty," I says. "Gee," says Smithy, "no sleep for us Dooddy! We got to show up at the office at seven-thirty!" And we did.

D EAD to the world, we got there at seven-thirty and we're the first. I dratted mestin' anyone—Sylvester, Genevieve, the whole bunch—because I felt sure they'd spot me for bein' out all night! And I was sore at myself and everyone else! When I heard Sylvester come in I bent down over the desk I'm settin' at and pretended bein' busy with some account cards. "Cheese!" says Smithy.
